

Minerva's is calling all writers, would-be writers... and could-be writers! Is this YOU??

Are you working on a writing project?... SHOULD you be working on a writing project??

Jeremy Abbate, of Scientific American Magazine is coming to
to lead a writers' workshop!

MAYBE you should clear November 16-18 and come join that workshop?
Read on.....

A veteran of years of writing/editing/publishing at Scientific American--one of Minerva's very favorite publications--Jeremy brings a wealth of experience in, excitement about, and expertise at writers/writing/ideas. He also brings enthusiasm about helping us fellow writers improve our game!! (And he plays the guitar and SINGS too!)

For a long time we've tried to get Jeremy here, but his calendar is often very full.

If you don't know Jeremy's work, take a little preview at

<https://globalwellnessinstitute.org/archive/jeremy-abbate/>

Then contact Minerva's to grab this opportunity to get to know him, and to have him encourage you in your work!

The weekend's format--which will be guided by Minerva's mantra: "friends don't let friends write alone"-- will include both guided "writing exercise sessions" and plenty of unstructured time to enjoy the ocean and to let your own muse work!

And it's a bargain: two nights' lodging, plus supper Friday and Saturday; breakfast Saturday and Sunday for the skinny little price of $260 all-inclusive ($210/person if you are sharing a room). AND you may add Sunday and Monday nights to extend your writing time, for $60/room/night.

Shouldn't you contact Minerva's RIGHT NOW???

